

Sydney Film School Open Day

YOUR-NEWS LOCAL NEWS 14 MAY 09 @ 04:38PM BY IRCHE

On Saturday 30th May at 2:00pm, Sydney Film School invites you to its Open Day. Come in and treat yourself with answers to all the questions you might have about studying film in one of the most innovative, creative and productive training environments.

After screening a sample of recent short dramas and documentaries produced by SFS students, a panel of key teachers supported by a couple of graduates and current students will discuss the real experience of the Sydney Film School's practical - hands on training, both in 16mm and digital film.

Meet the group of dedicated and passionate teachers, committed and experienced industry professionals who are themselves actively involved in the film industry.

Listen to the graduates' own experiences of working in the film industry and see current students studying (mostly editing), as study will not be suspended for the day. The day starts at 2pm and runs until all the questions have been exhausted. Coffee, tea and muffins will keep you going!

To find out more visit sydneyfilmschool.com

<http://www.whereilive.com.au>